Notes on Handles & thumb pieces of Baluster Shaped measures.

From, Ingelby Wood.

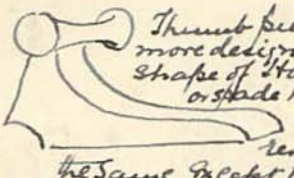
Thumb piece

Body of Tankard

Late XVI Century.

Earliest Type, latter part of 16th Century. Handle plain, soldered flat against body of measure & ending in flat curve.

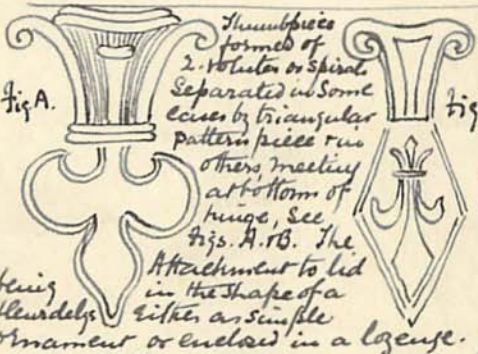
very flat curves to body Comparatively little bulge or swelling, sometimes spreading out at base.



1650 to 1740 period.

Thumb piece showed more design & took the shape of Hammer head or spade handle. The lower part remains much the same, except that end of wedge was rounded off instead of coming to an edge. Handle attached to body by small strut & ended in flat curve as last period

Curves of body somewhat fuller & spread out at foot more generally.



1740 to 1826 period

Thumbpiece formed of 2 volutes or spirals Separated in some cases by triangular pattern piece & two others meeting at bottom of hinge, See figs. A. & B. The Attachment to lid in the shape of a kite & sometimes as a shell ornament or enclosed in a lozenge.

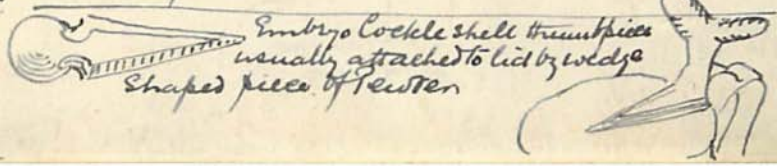
At the same time another Shaped thumb piece came into vogue Consisting of a tall or knot with wedge shaped Attachment to lid. The handle remains same as last period except that it turned up at bottom & finished in a sort of bulb or ball.

Curve of body remained same as 1650-1740. period though some specimens show fuller curves.

1700 to 1836. period



Embryo Cockle shell thumbpiece usually attached to lid by wedge Shaped piece of pewter
